The Channel Islands were the only part of the British Isles to fall into enemy hands, when they were occupied by Nazi Germany between 1940 and 1945.

2020 will be the 75th anniversary of Jersey's Liberation following Occupation during WW2. Jersey will mark this milestone by identifying and telling compelling stories to ensure Jersey's Liberation legacy lives on. As well as the stories of hardship and suffering, Jersey will curate stories to bring the brave spirit of Jersey and its people to life.

Events and experiences will be organised throughout the year to celebrate this anniversary. The island will reveal modern execution methods, interactive installations and media to ensure the content resonates with all, but also creates a product story and engagement piece for all generations that can remain as an accessible legacy for the island.

Day 1

Make one of the island's heritage locations home for your stay and get a unique island break experience. Escape to a one-off location and discover the island's V75 story through different eyes.

Set on a cliff top overlooking Corbière lighthouse on Jersey's south-west tip, Radio Tower provides stunning self-catering accommodation over six floors and boasts a 360-degree view. Built during the Second World War by German Occupying Forces, Radio Tower has been sympathetically restored in a German modernist Bauhaus style with a concrete staircase winding through the centre of the building over six floors to a wooden spiral staircase which takes you to the top floor. Original features include observation slots on the seaward side and steel doors on the ground floor.

Discover Jersey's rich history with a stay at the Pomme d'Or Hotel. Originally built in 1837, the hotel is part of the fabric of Jersey life. The hotel's prime site overlooking the Harbour, proved to be an ideal location for the German Naval Headquarters during the WW2, when Jersey was occupied by Nazi forces. The hotel's position overlooking Liberation Square harks back to 1945, when the Union Jack was raised on the balcony of the hotel, marking the Liberation of Jersey from occupation.

There are many events and tours to choose from during your visit to Jersey. Many of our local guides will inspire you with moving, unforgettable stories, inviting you to see history in a different light, viewing it through the lens of adversity, perseverance and the strength of community.

History Alive! offer a selection of different tours covering the period of Jersey's occupation, for those with a general interest, to those who are military history enthusiasts!

“The German Occupation – Life in Jersey” takes a full day. The German Occupation changed Jersey forever. Loss of freedom, hardship and millions of tons of concrete and steel! A more general tour covering the impact of the Occupation upon Jersey's residents as well as the Island itself. Few people who have only known freedom will understand how occupation changes human behaviour – sometimes for the better but often for the worst. This tour circles the island and therefore includes most of Jersey's best scenery. Visits to Channel Island Military Museum (which is in a former bunker) will be included if open.

The Channel Island Military Museum is housed in a German bunker which once formed part of Hitler's Atlantic Wall defenses. Sitting right on the sea wall the bunker dominates the surrounding area. Within the bunker itself are many rooms full of artefacts both military and civilian which help tell the story of the five years of occupation. There are hundreds of interesting pieces to look at as well as lots of reading material, there is also a 40-minute commentary of locals recounting experiences of the time.

Open from March 26 to 31 October 2019.
